[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN DATES TO AUGUST 15

BY THE CABLES

PARIS August 15 —The son of the Prefect of the Moselle telegraphs the Minister of the Interior from Toul 14th that some Prussians were seen near the town in the afternoon of the 11th A reconnoissance was made by gens d'armes and cavalry who came up on two hundred Uhlans and shots were exchanged killing one and wounding three of the enemy The latter summoned the town to surrender and receiving a defiant refusal they retired

An official dispatch states that the corps of Gens L'Admirault and De Frea were engaged in combat at Metz yesterday Marshal Bazaine was present The enemy was repulsed after four hours fighting Details of the battle not yet received

The Emperor and Prince Imperial have arrived at Verdun

Rhine advices indicate that the enemy does not intend to lay siege to Strasbourg but merely to cut off communications They have blown up bridges and railway tunnels

A dispatch says the town of Bitsch is not captured as reported

The Emperor has released Victor Emanuel from his promise

NEW YORK August 15 —A Herald cable special says disturbances of a serious character occurred at Marseilles and Lyons Crowds collected in the streets shouting "A Bas L'Empereur" Three persons were killed Great rebellious feelings are manifested Fears are entertained of trouble to-day

German troops hold Pont-a-Mousson

LONDON August 15 —Midnight —A Paris correspondent writes that on Saturday night nothing was known of McMahon's position Probably he will rejoin the army at a nearer point than Chalons

The Orleans Princes are still in England

Pere Hyacinth has volunteered as a private in a regiment for the defence of Paris

FLORENCE August 15 —A Palermo dispatch announces the arrest yesterday of Mazzini

LONDON August 1 A dispatch from Forbach says the French while retreating to the west of the Moselle were attacked by the Prussians under Gen Steinmetz commander The French were thrown into confusion but made a gallant stand They were routed by the Prussians The slaughter was great

A dispatch from Carlsruhe says the Prussians now occupy Mulhausen and Baar One hundred thousand landwehr are crossing the frontier

PARIS August 15 —The newspapers explain that Nancy was given up to the Prussians because the French retired to Toul which being fortified, gave them a better chance to resist the Prussian advance

The Prussians place administrative officials in every captured French village

LONDON August 15 —It is reported that the retreat of the French army from Metz upon Chalons was to avoid a battle and published telegrams to that effect seem intended to mislead Our special correspondent at Chalons is a French officer and cannot be deceived about the movements of the army He wrote Friday that all is being pushed forward to Metz

A telegram from Canrobert at Metz says the army is quite ready for battle and it will be fought Monday or Tuesday at latest Our correspondent telegraphs Monday noon from Luxemburg that the sound of cannon from Metz has been heard all the forenoon Orders are issued to stop all trains to Metz or Saarbrucken No communication by road is permitted

NEW YORK August 15 —A cable special to the Tribune dated Luxemburg 15th, says the line is again open to Metz Fighting lasted this morning from four to nine o'clock

A correspondent from Lauterburg writes that on Friday Hagenau was captured by a small detachment

Twenty peasants were shot by court martial for mutilating and murdering the wounded

A correspondent from Mannheim reports the second line of the German army is now going forward to support the first It is composed almost wholly of Prussian troops and is perhaps even a better army than the first

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 16 —The Democrats have nominated Stewart Menzies for Supervisor of the 1st ward Jas J Kenny third and Robt Goodwin fifth The pledge from candidates to employ none but Democrats was rescinded so far as applied to school directors

It is denied that the Tax Payers Convention have nominated anybody yet but a resolution has been adopted that no candidate pledged to carry out the platform of either political party can be nominated which will cut off all the nominees of the Democratic ticket several of whom expected to be indorsed

A gypsum mine has been discovered in a range near Livermore Pass The vein is said to be two feet thick

In the Internal Revenue Department Assistant Assessors Samuel Ten Eyck Edward Corbett and Jerome Sullivan have been removed

A correspondent at San Jose writes to the Alta as follows The town on the hill at the New Almaden mines was nearly destroyed by fire this morning The fire originated in a small bakery at two o'clock No engines being on hand the fire spread with great rapidity, taking building after building until almost the whole of the town was destroyed A gentleman just in from the mines states that between fifty and sixty buildings were entirely consumed among which was a new theater just finished The people had barely time to escape with their lives Great suffering and destitution will follow as all the people were poor and are left with nothing Most of the buildings belonged to mining companies

FOREIGN NOTES

Louis Napoleon recently threatened a new coup d'etat on a stupendous scale in the shape of the establishment of a revolutionary republic in case of a European combination against France Should Prussia prove too much for him without any combination he will be at liberty to fulfil his threat

There is a significant remark of the present French Emperor's, repeated by Jerome Bonaparte "The fall of Palmerston was the heaviest blow I have ever received He was the only sincere friend I had So long as he was Minister England had no allies Palmerston used to call the Germans a nation of d—d Professors"

The second son of the King of Portugal Alfonso Henri Napoleon Louis Pierre d'Alcantara Charles Hubert Amedeus Ferdinand Antonio Michel Raphael Gabriel Gonzaga Xavier Francis cod Assise Juan Auguste Jules Wolfand Ignatius de Braganza Savoie Bourbon Saxe Coburg et Gotha Duke of Oporto who is now five years of age is spoken of as a candidate for the Spanish throne

The war between Prussia and France has proved a severe blow to the trade in petroleum which had grown to be one of the most important branches of our foreign commerce Germany afforded us the best market for our product and it was chiefly in German ships that the oil was transported The war has caused most of the German ships to withdraw from the trade rather than subject themselves to the danger of capture The result of course is that the petroleum traffic with Germany must be almost entirely suspended so long as the war continues

The Ministers have addressed the following proclamation to the Parisians: Our army has been concentrated A new effort has imparted to it fresh hopes and confidence but agitation here will lessen the morale and force of the army and act against it In the event of a reverse the French army will be between the Germans and Paris We will prepare for the defense of Paris The Deputies will co-operate with us Let all good citizens help and prevent disorder Those who wish will have arms furnished them and will be sent to the front at once

When a Wisconsin man wants to compliment a woman on her good looks he tells her she is as pretty as a spotted hog

West Side Railroad History

At the meeting of the Oregon Central Railroad Company in this city last Saturday a report was read by the President J C Ainsworth showing the condition of the affairs of the Company and giving a history of its transactions and management which we thought our readers would like to see The statement of receipts and expenditures is printed elsewhere in this paper We must give the historical portions of the history of the report Whatever foreign interest may exist we will enable our readers to understand the operations of the Company It will appear that there has been something like a lack of unity among the parties connected with the enterprise at different times Mr Ainsworth tells the following rather interesting bit of history

During the summer of 1868 Edwin Russell Esq Manager of the Portland Branch of the Bank of British Columbia, kindly volunteered to use his influence and efforts in negotiating for iron and cash in London to which city he was then on a visit and in October of that year the Company received a telegram from Mr Russell tendering us three thousand tons of rails and twenty-five thousand pounds sterling cash for five hundred bonds The Board of Directors was at the time in session the Company was some in debt and we were discussing the furtherance of the work S G Reed & Co were proposing to take a contract to build the road for thirty thousand dollars coin per mile and on account of their proposition and contract then agreed upon the proposition of Mr Russell was declined It is true that the price tendered from London would have placed the bonds at a low rate, yet it is equally true that if accepted the London proposition would have secured the first twenty miles of the road and decided the contest for the old land grant in favor of this Company Under this contract with Reed & Company the work of grading was carried on from November 1st 1868 until April 1st 1869 when they (the contractors) suspended work threw up their contract, and sought to be relieved therefrom At an informal meeting of the Directors one of whom was a member of the firm of Reed & Co it was decided to be the best policy probably for the Company in order to retain the friendship and support of the persons composing said firm (S G Reed J C Ainsworth, R R Thompson and J W Ladd) and to avoid litigation with persons ostensibly the friends of the Company while at the same time engaged in embarrassing litigation with the East Side Company to cancel the said contract, which was thereupon done and Reed & Co were allowed to take in payment of money expended under their contract the ten blocks in Couch's addition to Portland at ten thousand dollars and first mortgage bonds for the balance at fifty eight cents on the dollar amounting to seventy seven thousand dollars in bonds Subsequent events have shown this to be an error of the Board, for instead of supporting the West Company in its further contest with opposition they alone furnished the means to make that opposition successful in securing the old land grant by furnishing a locomotive and two hundred tons railroad iron purchased for the Company and thus enabling the East Side Company to complete the first twenty miles within the time limited in the law

This throws a good deal of light on an interesting subject West side people will now begin to see why the road which they justly regard as so important to their progress and prosperity has not been built The report presents some really important revelations We quote further

Passing over the year 1869 during which but little more was done than was necessary to keep up the organization we come to the efforts to secure a new land grant By the authority of the Company I went to Washington City in January last I there found Judge Olney (representing the Astoria Company already on the ground, and with a bill before each branch of Congress asking for a land grant from Portland to Astoria To get his project out of the way, and harmonize all West Side influences a consolidation of the Astoria Company with this corporation was substantially agreed upon and, after several months hard work by the Oregon Congressional delegation, the Company secured a very valuable land grant to aid in the construction of our road In the meantime negotiations had been started which were closed up on May 9th last securing the completion of the road by an association of Railroad Contractors in Philadelphia as fast as the Company should grade the roadway and put on the ties Under this contract the Company reserved one-sixth of the first mortgage bonds, and one-sixth of the stock—five thousand dollars per mile of each—and all the local aid to do our part of the work while the Philadelphia Contractors were to receive the remaining five-sixths of the stock and bonds for their part of the work I believe this to have been as good a contract as the Company could have secured in any direction under all the circumstances I returned to Oregon in full confidence that the capitalists of Portland would at once take hold of the matter raise the necessary but small sum of fifty thousand dollars to make ready the first twenty miles for the iron and thus secure to themselves and to this city a railroad of their own and under their own control But I regret to say that I was mistaken in the public spirit of gentlemen professing to be; and who had large contingent interests justifying them to be the pecuniary supporters of the West Side Road And, added to my surprise I must confess to some mortification on being told by professed friends that this money could and would be raised if I would retire from the Company To leave no excuse to any one to aid in this matter I cheerfully accepted this "stab in the house of my friends" and formally proposed and agreed to transfer my stock to any Portland capitalists and retire from the Company on the sole condition that they would raise this money to commence the work and carry on to success this enterprise under its present name, which I had inaugurated without means and for so many years had labored through untold trials to keep alive

We offer no comments at this time on these revelations but give what follows as necessary regarding his own subsequent action

But Portland capitalists did not seem to want this road They would not after all put down the money Our bondholders were quite awake to their interests and the figure they cut in the matter but it did not take the shape of putting in enough money to make good that already invested It was necessary that something should be done and done quickly as judgments had been recovered against the Company on its debts and we were liable to and threatened with bankruptcy every day Under these circumstances I made up my mind that my duty to the interests of the enterprise and to the people of the West Side counties required that I should place the road in the hands of a man able and willing to push it through to success I think that my official oath as a Director required such a course and therefore negotiated a transfer of the controlling interest to parties friendly to Mr Holladay with the understanding that this gentleman after a thorough examination and survey of the different routes and finding our graded route as practicable and cheap as any other will adopt he same accept a transfer of our franchises pay all our just debts and build the West Side Road under the corporation recently organized under the name of the Willamette Valley Railway Company of which Mr Holladay is the principal stockholder

A clerk in an hotel has a magnificent scheme in view It is a circular hotel to rest on a pivot like a locomotive turn table The object is to give every guest a front room that being an almost invariable request By assigning guests to rooms then in front and turning them to the rear upon the advent of others

"Come Bob get up" said an indulgent father to his hopeful son the other morning "Remember the early bird catches the worm" "What do I care for worms?" replied the young hopeful "mother won't let me go fishing"

Hays City Kansas has a female constable When she has an attachment for a man especially a young man, she sticks to him like Spalding's glue

COMMENTS ON THE WAR

ENGLAND AND NEUTRALITY

From the N Y Herald

The Prussian press has been very heartily attacking England during the last few days for its neutrality and breaches with England on the other hand The French Press especially bitter because the English journals have so generally expressed sympathy with France As the anger of the Germany grows She manages her foreign relations so as to change her friends and depend on the animosity of her enemies After the pressure of war is over perhaps she and France will unite to chastise her for neutral acquaintance

AMERICAN SYMPATHY

From the N Y Staats Zeitung

That the sympathies of the American people should be pro German is a thing which will be explained by the future—at least so much as we can declare in the great impending struggle in Europe their sympathies for either of the two belligerent parties is obvious but it requires no proof The whole civilized world will be divided by this struggle into two camps But what motive shall decide for the native Americans which side to take? This is a question which deserves to be considered somewhat more closely because we see already a part of both the principal parties in the United States manifest opposite sympathies Republican papers see the right on the side of Germany and Democratic papers side with France The main principal to every American of all parties the Republican Democratic one—free government —is as well known not in question at all in the European conflict That has grown out of national and dynastic interests and conflicts and will be fought out only on that line National sympathies can have preponderance among the Americans neither for the one nor for the other side France has given to America a large number of quite as good and estimable citizens as did Germany With France America is linked by historical traditions of the foundation of the Republic With Germany she is linked by grateful reminiscences of her last crises Of the large bulk of the adopted population millions of German origin enthusiastically take part for the cause of the old fatherland while millions of Celtic descent declare openly their inclination to and preference for France Quite as little to the American the mere interest gives a hold The interest of the people of the United States as an industrial and commercial nation connects it quite as closely with Germany as with France and forces it to the desire to remain with both in peace and friendship The language renders the Americans quite as little kindred and inclined to one or the other part What is therefore left, in order to lead the thinking American in his choice? We find to this question only one answer It is the right The right in the quarrels of individual men, and equally in the conflicts of nations is no empty sound no vague idea but something real something that can be decided by the rules of reason and of moral sentiment

[From the N Y Arbeiter Union (German)]

As far as we Germans abroad are concerned every thinking and striving man among us every one who has had to represent any interest of culture among foreigners has strongly felt at all times how impotent he was merely for the reason that he had left no respected German nationality behind him What could not we Germans in America achieve with our knowledge virtues and performances for all higher aims of culture, if we were united strengthened by just national pride—if our endeavors had for their background the recommendation of everything great the Germans represent on the other side of the water? To day our influence is behind that of the Irishmen—and Irishmen rule us in New York We should even not be opposed to this if it was in the interest of the everlasting ideas of improvement—but that is not the case

THE WAR IN A FINANCIAL POINT OF VIEW

[From the New York Herald]

It is a common expression that money constitutes the sinews of war and this is true no doubt to a great extent But in these times when wars are shortened and more quickly decided money plays a less important part than formerly The railroads telegraph and the other resources and appliances of modern science make war in thickly populated countries, like those of Europe short sharp and decisive There are few great nations that cannot now raise both means to try the strength of their military power only worn out or effete nations—those completely exhausted—have neither the money nor credit to wage war As regards financial resources then there is little difference in the situation of France and Prussia Both countries have made great progress of late years in material development and have large resources within themselves Then both the Germans and French are so thoroughly aroused and enthusiastic that they will contribute doubtless to the extent of their means to carry on the war Neither of the belligerent Powers have yet attempted to negotiate or have spoken of a foreign loan except we may call the large loan which the Prussian government is said to have negotiated with the Rothschilds based on American securities as a foreign one Still should the war continue longer than is expected or should it spread over Europe the nation having the most money at its command or the highest credit will have the advantage Money then will become really the sinews of war We should then see which is the richest nation and which has the best credit in the world and of course the credit would depend very much upon the events of the war In the long and exhaustive wars waged against the First Napoleon the wealth and credit of England proved most effective. Commerce and manufactures had made England the richest country of the world and she was able not only to pay her own expenses in that prolonged and gigantic struggle but to subsidize her allies as well Those vast resources in fact more than anything else destroyed the power of the great Napoleon But the times are different now Such long and exhausting wars are hardly possible in this age Railroads the telegraph and improved means of destruction must end war much sooner however widespread it may be.

NATIONAL HATREDS

[From the New Haven Palladium]

We had it once your German Rhine is the first line of a song written by Alfred De Musset and which has long been popular with French students It fairly represents the feeling with which the people of France regard Germany and especially Prussia Of the foreign soldiers who occupied France none not even the Cossacks left such hateful memories behind them as the Prussians The bitter humiliation which was inflicted on France after the fall of the First Napoleon has never been forgotten and the traditional hatred with which England, the soul of the foreign coalition and the victor at Waterloo was long regarded has now been transferred to Prussia

Seward on the Fifteenth Amendment

On the 1st of August the colored people of Auburn N Y celebrated the triumph of the fifteenth amendment As the procession marched past the residence of Governor Seward a halt was made and loud cheers given for the governor who made his appearance at the entrance of the grounds and spoke as follows

I rejoice with you in the event you are celebrating no more because it guarantees internal peace and perpetual integrity to the United States than because it is a harbinger of the advancement of your own race and its progress of civilization throughout the world The event proves that one cannot keep men slaves I am well aware that effective as this has been, however amended and perfected cannot of themselves make men free It requires education and religion to do this and even with these the African race in the United States is not assured for the future so long as they are held in slavery or barbarism in any other part of the world Employ them as schoolmaster and minister of the Gospel You need them now more than you ever did before It devolves upon you now that you have been emancipated yourselves to work out the emancipation and enfranchisement of your race in the West Indies South America and in Africa For this great work you will need neither arms nor navies but you need just what your friends among the whites had: the working of your own, the school house and the Christian meeting house Statesmen never fail to carry out what people instructed by these only good and humane agencies show to be safe just and practicable Farewell

The Daily Oregonian.

[illegible] AUGUST [illegible]

What Is Germany?

[illegible] struggle in [illegible] he is not making war [illegible] Prussia [illegible]

[illegible] that nation [illegible] Confederation [illegible] not to any [illegible] relations the King of Prussia [illegible] to establish [illegible] north of the river Main and [illegible] the Kings of Bavaria and Wurtemburg and the Duke [illegible] constitutes the South German States [illegible] according to the stipulations [illegible] of conquest Prussia [illegible] the kingdom of Hanover [illegible] Electorate of Hesse Nassau and the [illegible] of Frankfort which for [illegible] administration [illegible] as Bavaria [illegible] a few small provinces [illegible] Darmstadt the upper part [illegible] Schleswig Holstein was also included with a reservation in favor of annexing North Schleswig to Denmark in case the inhabitants voted in favor of such a measure. [illegible] Prussia has never fulfilled this article of the treaty of Prague. This then is Prussia proper and is the kingdom against which Napoleon declared [illegible] waging war. Prussia contains about twenty four millions of inhabitants.

The North German Confederation established in 1866 consists of Prussia and the German States north of the river Main. The names of these States (twenty [illegible] number) are Saxony Mecklenburg Schwerein Mecklenburg Strelitz Oldenburg, Brunswick Saxe Weimar Saxe Meiningen, Saxe Altenburg Saxe Coburg Gotha Anhalt, Schwarsburg Rudolstadt Schwarsburg Sondershausen, Waldeck Reuss two provinces, Schaumburg Lippe Lippe Detmold Lubeck Bremen, Hamburg and Hesse Darmstadt. If any one is provoked with the number and length and insignificance of their names he will be able to sympathize with the intelligent or unintelligent foreigner in his attempts to distinguish thirty seven States by such names as Connecticut Mississippi, Minnesota, Michigan Rhode Island, Oregon and other jargon meaningless and unsuggestive to him. These German States have a population of about five and a-half millions making a total of twenty nine millions in the Confederation. The federal laws like ours are superior to the local laws. The citizen of one State is a citizen of all the States. Legislation by the Federal Council and Diet relates to emigration commerce money, banks, protection of commerce and the German flag abroad railways, telegraphs, navigation and the procedure of civil and commercial law. The Federal Council, like the United States Senate represents the States. Prussia elects seventeen members. Saxony four, Mecklenburg Schwerein two, Brunswick two, the other States one each. The Diet is chosen by universal suffrage, and on the basis of the population in each State. The King of Prussia is President of the North German Confederation. In its name he declares war, concludes peace makes treaties, executes the federal laws nominates federal officers, commands the army and navy and declares martial law if necessary. In time of war the chief power passes into his hands exclusively. He appoints generals fixes the number of the army puts it on a war footing while the special officers in command of the contingent of each State are nominated by the princes of each State. Practically therefore, the King to-day is in command of all the military and naval forces of the North German Confederation, as much as if they belonged to him as King of Prussia. When Napoleon says he makes war against Prussia and not against Germany, he simply invites any other States of the Confederation to secede.

The South German States have never entered into a confederation among themselves, and with the exception of Baden, have never taken any steps to unite with the North German Confederation. Their commercial relations with North Germany take the form of a Zollverein Parliament consisting of the North German Federal Council to which the South German States send thirteen plenipotentiaries and of the Federal Diet to which the South German States send eighty six deputies. They have also adopted by mutual agreement the fundamental principles of the Prussian military system. By a secret treaty made in 1866 with the governments of Bavaria, Baden and Wurtenburg the armies of those States are placed at the disposal of the King of Prussia and he will assume the supreme command. The population of the South German States is over eight and a half millions. Germany and France therefore are two nations of nearly forty millions each and for war purposes one is in form if not in feeling, as solid and compact as the other.

The Political Situation

Over all this vast country says the Chicago Republican general prosperity reigns. Every hamlet village and city gives evidences of growth. Countless new buildings are everywhere rising and farm improvements go on ceaselessly, in connection with all the other great developments in the material interests of the people at large. A vast aggregate crop is the reward of this year's industry. Business of all kinds has been free from speculation and though comparatively slow has been safe. If [illegible] fortunes have not been rapidly made [illegible] they have not been [illegible] lost. [illegible] have risen high enough to give a fair margin to the producer [illegible] its just reward and the promise for the future is all favorable [illegible] healthy growth of the country and [illegible] of all its great [illegible]

Compare this [illegible] with the Democratic statements [illegible] with the dark pictures [illegible] painted for the public eye. They furnish their own comment. They indicate [illegible] that a wise and sagacious Administration has watched over the nation's affairs, has paid off huge sums of public debt [illegible] taxation [illegible] reduced [illegible] collection [illegible] introduced economy [illegible] restored order and domestic [illegible] and preserved peaceful relations with the world. What more was practicable? When Democrats talk [illegible] let Republicans point to [illegible] accomplished.

Napoleon in his proclamation said the war was to be long and [illegible] contested. It looks to the outside world a good deal as if it would be short sharp and decisive. And it is probable that the Emperor himself begins to view this as among the possibilities. It is certain at all events that he has received new light by this time.

Grain for Export

[illegible] in this report. Though we [illegible] in the importance of producing [illegible] to the growth of wheat for export [illegible] grain [illegible] labor [illegible] combined with [illegible] skill in diversified industry [illegible] yield better [illegible]

We would not disparage [illegible] It is the resource [illegible] States. It [illegible] with less capital [illegible] But as industry [illegible] developed by machinery to the great extent to which manufacturing [illegible] Therefore [illegible] cannot [illegible] profitable [illegible] of agriculture the rudest kind of labor will suffice. Now the profits of the [illegible] operations of skilled labor are always greater than those of labor in its first operations. [illegible] highest [illegible] perfection [illegible] connection with [illegible] establishment of manufacturing [illegible] industry which however [illegible] as a community relies on growing grain for export is our greatest need. Then we have a home market to support agriculture and agriculture becomes in its turn an auxiliary of manufacturing industry.

It is proposed, we learn by some of the Democratic managers to have the Legislature organize a separate Supreme Court. And as it is pretty generally conceded that Col Kelly though deserving well of the party cannot be elected Senator because of his mistaken action on railroad and other important issues it is proposed to mollify him by giving him the position of Chief Justice. This would be an acknowledgement of his services to his party and at the same time break the force of his fall from the high pinnacle of his expectations.

Some of the incidents that transpired at the meeting of the [illegible] railroad company (we mean the old company) in this city last Saturday have leaked out. It appears that Capt Ainsworth wanted to levy an assessment on the stockholders so as to go on with the work. This was a considerable change of programme. Capt Ainsworth and other gentlemen here have been connected with this proposed enterprise for some years and their invariable rule heretofore has been not to pass the hat.

CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA

A specimen weighing 106 pounds 97 pounds of which is gold, was found in Baltimore ravine, Placer county a few days since, by a poor miner.

A sturgeon six feet long jumped out of the water in Vallejo bay and fell into a skiff. The boatman was afraid he would capsize the boat, and, with an oar, helped him back into the water.

Treasure City, Nevada, is the most economically managed city in the world. The Marshal's salary has been abolished, and the entire municipal machinery is now run without the expenditure of a single cent.

The steamer Great Republic which sailed the 1st instant for Yokohama, took out a ten stamp quartz mill complete, for a Japanese Prince who is opening some silver mines on his estate under the superintendence of Frank C Farrington who went out as Private Secretary to Minister De Long.

The San Jose Independent announces that James Lick, of that city will shortly commence the erection of a magnificent Opera House in San Francisco, to cost one million dollars. Accompanying this announcement is a bill of complaint against Mr Lick for spending his own money when and where he pleases.

The Marysville Appeal has this ill natured paragraph: "The Sacramento papers are urging the establishment of free swimming baths in that city. If they succeed we trust that they may have cleaner water in their baths than that which they now drink. One might as well think of washing in a slop bucket, as of bathing in such stuff. The Nevada people boast of luxurious baths in chicken soup. The Sacramentans might indulge in the luxury of Mock Turtle ablutions."

THE TERRITORIES

An Idaho paper says that reports from the Snake river mines continue good and miners are on the tramp from every direction toward that point.

Says the Boise City Statesman: The river is lower than ever before known, and has fallen so rapidly during the last two or three weeks of hot and dry weather that the supply of water in the big ditch is almost entirely cut off.

From the Walla Walla Union: P B Johnson Esq is just finishing up the census of this county, and informs us that Walla Walla county has a population of between 5,300 and 5,400 inhabitants. The portion of this valley which does not lie in our county contains about 1,200 or 1,500 more.

A Walla Walla paper has this: The reports from the mines are better than for several years on account of there being more water this year than for some time back. We see no miners returning as yet and this of itself is sufficient to induce the belief that the mines are paying better than usual. Generally by this time of year we have hundreds of returned miners who have been compelled to return on account of the scarcity of water.

Election Contests in Yamhill

LAFAYETTE Aug [illegible]

EDITOR ONE [illegible]: The decision of Judge Boise in the contested election case in Yamhill county has been filed in the County Clerk's office. Fifteen illegal votes cast for Ramsey and Carr Democrats were thrown out and five [illegible] for Smith and [illegible] Republicans were set aside. This leaves Smith elected County Judge by a majority of eight votes and [illegible] elected School Superintendent by a majority of seven votes. The Judge's decision [illegible] and published will be read with interest [illegible]

[illegible] asking help of the Legislature [illegible] that body will override the law [illegible] court and the voice of the people of Yamhill county in [illegible] a chance to [illegible] for Col Kelly for U S Senator. Shook and Townsend are also engaged in the same questionable business. [illegible] Legislature of Oregon will never perpetrate [illegible] outrage. Neither judges others by his own standard and weighs justice in his own balance. Both are short.

A countryman, walking the streets of New York, found his progress stopped by a close barricade of lumber. "What is that for?" said he to a person in the street. "That's to stop the cholera." "Ah! I've often heard of the board of health but I never saw one before."

The Governor of the Work House at Pleasington, England recently ordered a lad named J[illegible] Barring to be ducked for soiling his clothes. He was ducked so thoroughly that he was drowned, or as the Coroner's jury hath it met "death by misadventure."

The nearly illegible condition of the signatures to the Declaration of Independence is due to the experiment of an artist made in President Monroe's time. He applied to John Quincy Adams Secretary of State to be allowed to take a fac simile of the signatures from the original parchment by applying a lacquer [illegible] paper which he represented would be an entirely harmless operation. Mr Adams objected to the experiment apprehending damage to the document but the President thought there was no danger and so the transfer was made and the result has been as Mr Adams feared—the original signatures have been nearly ruined only the stronger ones being at all legible.

On the day preceding Admiral Farragut's departure from London when he traced the Duchess of Somerset was earnestly entreating him to dine with her, for the fourth time [illegible] he gratified with her empressement of manner grasped her hand with both hands and exclaimed: "But my dear fellow it is impossible." The Duchess was delighted with the term of endearment [illegible] as a legacy from Admiral Farragut and relates the anecdote with the liveliest pleasure.

ASTORIA ITEMS.—From our regular correspondent. ASTORIA August 15 1870. There are a few cases of scurvy on board the bark Yorkwork [illegible] which arrived on Saturday.

The weather is cool and pleasant.

[illegible] are pretty well filled with visitors from up the country and they are having a good time between sea bathing and good fresh clams and crabs and [illegible] on the beach.

A man named [illegible] with his wife and old [illegible] started [illegible] in a boat to come to Astoria about [illegible] miles distant on last Tuesday and it being very smoky at the time, missed his reckoning and when the smoke cleared up that evening he found himself at sea, having gone out over the bar. He landed himself and wife on the outside beach and had his boat hauled across the land and launched in the river again. When he found himself [illegible] rough water he throwed three barrels of salmon overboard which he had with him. His experience is something that even the oldest inhabitant never heard of before.

INCREASE OF PAY AND MILEAGE

We are indebted to Marshal Thos H Young for the following copy of a circular of instructions in regard to the pay of jurors in the United States Courts

TREASURY DEPARTMENT
First Comptroller's Office July 31 1870

The attention of all Marshals of the United States is directed to the Act of Congress approved July 15, 1870 to provide for the compensation of Grand and Petit Jurors, the first section of which provides that hereafter the Grand and Petit Jurors in the several Circuit and District Courts of the United States shall each receive for his services the sum of three dollars per day for each day's actual attendance at Court and for the time necessarily occupied in going to and returning from the same, and the sum of five cents per mile for the distance necessarily traveled from their residences in going to and returning from said Court by the shortest practicable route

Accounts for payments to July 14 under the old law, and from the 15th under the new should be stated on separate abstracts, in all districts where the jurors were in actual attendance at Court at the time the Act cited was approved

MR. VINSON'S BENEFIT—Oro Fino Theater has not been so entirely filled since the days when positively everybody went to see Mrs Bates as it was last evening at Mr Vinson's benefit—chairs were in front and pit all full, rows of chairs in the aisles, and rows of men standing for lack of sitting room. The adopted German comedy of "The Fatherland" was very handsomely rendered, with Mr Vinson in the character of Wagner, the veteran sergeant. Wagner is rather in Mr Vinson's line, but he does not bring it up by any means to the excellence of his Grimaldi of the Old Guard, nor could the character be made much of. It strikes us that the original old German sergeant would be less nervously demonstrative than was Mr Vinson in certain passages and more phlegmatically dignified or stiff which we may be the proper word. Nevertheless it would be no less than justice to say that he gave some several exhibitions of genuine artistic acting. He would be not Vinson if he failed to do that, in almost any piece of tolerable merit. For the rest, Miss Annie Pixley was quite a pretty Ernestine, nothing more. Miss Minnie ... made Karl quite the leading part in the ... The part assigned to Miss Ingles was rendered with very fair ability considering that it was altogether minor to the others. James Bybee vs Summers & ...—in equity cause argued and submitted on paper. The case will be taken under advisement and will be reargued at Chambers at Salem

J C MEGLER VS M ... CALENDA

In this case a suit brought to contest the right of the defendant to the office of County School Superintendent. The opinion of the Court was delivered as follows

This case coming on to be heard and being submitted for final determination the Court finds

1 The said Edward Gervais resided in said county at the time of the general election—June 6th 1870—and had resided in said county more than ninety days next preceding the said election and he voted for the said J C Megler for said office and his vote was counted for said Megler by the judges of election

2 The said J Q A Bowlby at the time of said election was in the service of the United States as Deputy Collector. Before becoming such deputy and before entering said service he became an inhabitant and resident of said county of Clatsop and was a resident of said county at the time he was appointed such deputy, and has continued to reside in said county from that time to the present. He voted for the said Megler and his vote was rejected by the judges of election

3 The said A Hinman was in 1867 residing in Washington county, in this State, and while residing there was appointed Collector of the Customs and as such Collector came into the county of Clatsop and entered upon the duties of said office

4 A few weeks thereafter said Hinman brought his family to Clatsop county to live and rented, and resided in, a house there and within that year purchased the said house and a tract of land on which it is situated as a house for himself and family. And from the year 1867 to the present time said Hinman with his family has been domiciled in his own house at Astoria in Clatsop county. Said Hinman voted for said Megler and his vote was rejected by the judges of election

5 The said Gervais was a legal voter, and his vote should be counted for said Megler

6 The said Bowlby was a legal voter and his vote should be counted in favor of the said Megler

7 It is uncertain whether or not the said Hinman was a legal voter and his vote having been rejected by the judges of election should not be counted

8 The whole number of votes cast for the said office of Superintendent of Common Schools at said election excluding the vote of said Hinman, was 242 of which the whole number cast for said Megler was 121 and the whole number cast for the said Calendar was 121

9 Neither the said Megler nor the said Calendar was elected at said election to the said office

It is therefore considered and hereby adjudged that the said office of Superintendent of Common Schools for said county of Clatsop is vacant

DEATH OF MRS ANNA CORA MOWATT RITCHIE.—A cable telegram announces the death of Mrs. Anna Cora Mowatt, a lady whose career in social and stage life is kindly remembered especially by our city residents. She was the daughter of Mr Samuel Ogden and great grand daughter of Francis Lewis, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Her first husband James Mowatt was a well known financial man but after some reverses of his she undertook to make her own way. She became known in private circles as an accomplished reader and was urged to go upon the stage. This she did at the Park Theater on the 13th of June, 1845 in the character of Pauline to the Claude of the popular and admired actor Mr Wm H Crisp. Mrs Mowatt's success was complete; the prestige of her family connection, added to absolute talent made her career a success from the start. She was a conscientious and most painstaking artist, a woman of rare personal beauty and won a respect from the fickle public akin to that of her compeer and to some extent rival Julia Dean Hayne. Mrs Mowatt had a grand triumph in England where (in her day) American artists won their laurels far less easily than now. In 1851 she returned to this country and renewed her stage triumphs, to the delight of old and new friends, and in June 1854 bade our stage farewell at a grand complimentary benefit at Niblo's in which a great number of the most prominent citizens took part. Three days afterward she married William F Ritchie of the well known Virginia family of that name. Since that she has resided abroad for the most of the time and has had little or nothing to do with the stage. Her marriage was not fortunate. For sometime past she has used her pen as a correspondent of a San Francisco paper writing upon dramatic and literary topics. Mrs Mowatt was one of the few good women whose stage life was such as to give luster and purity to a profession too often abused by a widely different class of adventurers. With Charlotte Cushman, Julia Dean, Mrs Vernon, Mrs Hoey and others she gave in her successful career assurance that the stage might be and under their influence would be as honorable a position for good influence and proper teaching as any other station within the reach of woman's intellect. Her death will be deeply deplored by thousands of New Yorkers as well as all who honor true womanhood and brilliant talent

Suicide in Washington

WASHINGTON August 7 Yesterday afternoon a Frenchman committed suicide in a house in the Sixth Ward in this city by shooting himself with a Derringer about an inch below the heart. He lived about two hours after suffering intense agony. He was known as Count de H... but wrote his name usually as Rudolph Collett. He had been a clerk in the Census Bureau and had served in the 131st New York Volunteers during the war and was pensioned on account of wounds he had received. He was married, though separated from his wife and was living with another woman who was said to be the cause of the trouble between him and his wife. He had at one time been attached of the French Legation. The following ... were found among his effects, dated August 6th. "I am going to die. I am sick in mind and body and want rest and peace which I pray God may be found in the grave. I hope and trust he will forgive me this last sin in consideration of the anguish which ... I have tried ... to ... an honest hard working life for the sake of those I love, and might have succeeded ... who misunderstood me. I am not an ... and therefore cannot ... go to my native country to lie along with the rest of my family but must be buried ... in a strange country, friendless and alone. God bless my wife and baby and the few friends I have and may He in His infinite mercy pity and forgive Rudolph Collette Henri ... Thomas Barren Dessig"

THE OREGON CENTRAL RAILROAD

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT—FINANCIAL ...

In the report of J Gaston, President of the O C R R Co submitted to the Board of Directors at their meeting on the 13th inst the following statement occurs of the receipts and expenditures of the company from its organization in 1866 to August 1st 1870

Nothing seems to trouble the Democracy so much as evidence that the expenses of the Government are being rapidly reduced. They are perpetually alluding to Buchanan's administration as a standard of comparison and wholly omit all reference to the interest on the public debt, the vast pension list and other costs growing out of the war. Deducting these then the cost of the Government is but a mere trifle greater than in 1860—taking the gold standard as a basis of calculation—and making due allowance for increase of population. In 1866 at the close of the rebellion the expenses of the Government were $520 809 ... from which they have steadily decreased to 1870 when they were to the end of the fiscal year $292 1.. ..69 31. This includes more than $120 000 000 for interest on public debt, $40 000 000 for pensions, the cost of the army, navy, and appropriations of all kinds. The reduction this year as compared with last was $29 377 328 44 and the reduction of the public debt in the same time was about $150 000 000. That looks like business

In Montreal not long ago a young fashionably dressed woman went to a dentist with a very bad toothache. The dentist examined it and recommended its extraction. The lady consented and offered payment in advance, handing the dentist a dollar note. He gave the lady change, wrapped the note up with a roll of bills containing $140 and proceeded to pull the tooth. The operation was a severe one and the young lady screamed profusely and almost as soon as the tooth was out went away sobbing bitterly. A moment afterward the unhappy dentist put his hand into his pocket and found that Miss, while suffering intense pain had consoled herself with his $140

A late English paper has an elaborate article entitled "Beer scientifically and socially treated." The writer shows that the common people of that country drink chiefly beers and ales which have been adulterated with deleterious drugs. A great increase of insanity is attributed to this state of affairs and an earnest argument is made in favor of visiting severe punishment upon brewers or publicans who thus poison the people

A Philadelphia coach maker is building a carriage for sea bathing at Long Branch, designed to protect the lives of bathers and so arranged that its occupants stand or sit in it and get the full benefit of the surf without being exposed to the danger of drowning

THE great railroad era has dawned upon this State. The locomotive whistle is already heard in our midst. The North Pacific railroad have a regiment of engineers and surveyors in the field and will soon have thousands of men constructing the road. Hundreds of new settlers are arriving every month to fill up our State and develop her resources. But it matters not how many come, KOHN & FISHEL will be ready for them with all kinds of Clothing and Staple goods. They are constantly receiving fresh supplies by every steamer so their stock cannot be exhausted. Call and see them at their old stand on Front street

Decisions in the U S Circuit Court

U S Circuit Court for the District of Oregon

[illegible] by as plaintiffs claim [illegible] was in equity bound to convey to them the legal title which [illegible] from the United States [illegible] under the Donation Act of September 27 1850 [illegible]

[illegible] certain tract of land including the premises in controversy in trust for the occupants thereof and that plaintiffs [illegible] and are entitled to the benefit of said patent [illegible] the said defendant [illegible] to defraud plaintiffs [illegible] before the Surveyor General of Oregon that he had resided upon and cultivated the land [illegible] September 1853 [illegible] then well knowing that he had not [illegible] the plaintiffs pray that the defendant's patent might be set aside and held for naught and that defendant be compelled to release to plaintiffs all his right title and interest in the premises and be forever restrained from setting up any title to the same [illegible] of the premises and for other relief

Afterwards on August 23 defendant demurred to the amended complaint and on October [illegible] the court made an order sustaining the demurrer to that portion of the complaint concerning the patent to the corporate authorities of Portland and the fraud in obtaining the defendant's patent [illegible] of the plaintiffs by reason thereof and on October 28 the court made an order vacating the last named order and directing that the plaintiffs have leave to amend their complaint and requiring them to elect which cause of suit they would proceed upon and to set forth the same in the amended complaint

On November [illegible] the plaintiffs in pursuance of the last named order filed a second amended complaint alleging therein [illegible] except that they omitted therefrom the statement and claim set forth in the original complaint that the defendant by reason of certain agreements representations and doings was in equity bound to convey the legal title which he held to them and thereby elected to proceed against the defendant upon the ground of the patent to the corporate authorities of Portland and the fraud and illegality of the patent to the defendant

On November [illegible] the defendant answered the second amended complaint and on December [illegible] the plaintiff replied thereto

Afterwards such proceedings were had in the case that said Circuit Court on June 12 186[illegible] gave a final decree therein whereby it was found that the plaintiffs were entitled to the relief prayed for [illegible] and adjudged that the patent to the defendant of December 8 1860 as against plaintiffs [illegible] declared void and taken for naught and that the defendant be perpetually enjoined from suing for or ejecting the plaintiff from the possession of the premises in controversy

Afterwards on appeal to the Supreme Court of the State of Oregon said decree was wholly affirmed, and thereafter said cause was taken to the Supreme Court of the U S by said defendant upon a writ of error and upon a hearing thereon at the term of December 1867 it was adjudged and decreed that said decree be reversed and that the Supreme Court of Oregon remand the cause to the said Circuit Court with directions to dismiss the suit, which was done accordingly

Subsequently the plaintiff succeeded to the undivided [illegible] interest [illegible] in lots [illegible] and thereafter on February 12 1870 in an action at law [illegible] and prosecuted in this court by the defendant against the plaintiff the former obtained judgment against the latter for the possession of the premises last aforesaid and for the sum of [illegible] for the use and occupation of the same and for costs and disbursements of the action

On February 18 1870 the plaintiff commenced this suit to have the defendant enjoined from enforcing that judgment or maintaining any action against the plaintiff for the possession of the premises and to have the court adjudge and declare as against the defendant that the plaintiff is the owner of the premises and to compel the defendant to release to plaintiff his title thereto acquired by virtue of the donation [illegible] and the patent aforesaid, issued to him thereunder

The bill in this suit sets forth, as in the former suit [illegible] certain agreements representations and doings of the defendant [illegible] but makes no mention of the patent to the corporate authorities of Portland nor claim for the plaintiff thereunder nor does it contain any charge against the validity of the patent to the defendant but [illegible] that the latter has obtained the legal title to the premises as a settler [illegible]

[illegible]

2 That the subject matter [illegible] the title to the property was fully [illegible] in the suit of Lewis M [illegible] Starr against the defendant [illegible] the Supreme Court [illegible] that neither the plaintiff [illegible]

[illegible] between the parties [illegible] and effect [illegible] circumstances [illegible] which the plaintiff [illegible]
